About

Atomic Blastman is an upcoming 3D mayhem action-arcade multiplayer video game. While it is inspired by and resembles its predecessor, Atomic Bomberman (1997), Atomic Blastman features a completely new world with new characters, play environments, colors, music, and interface.

Atomic Blastman served as a Bachelor thesis for Indiependent Games Studio's owner, Roșcan Teodor, during the July 2024 session. Its main theoretical goal is to serve as a research environment for AI development, implementing and comparing different training methods. AI Blastmen use a neural network to predict the best available move, making them difficult to predict and globally optimal.
